COMMENTS: They began her campaign for election after what seemed like an immeasurable amount of fatigue from natural disasters and other unfortunate events surrounding this pandemic. Our small campaign members including herself have been through a lot. They had little time to properly prepare, under such upheaval and sickness throughout, for most of their reports. Unfortunately, their small team was overwhelmed by all of this along with managing new community outreach guidelines due to mask mandates, etc. Also attributed to missing residential information and other updates, such as receipts and invoices received. They simply didn't have enough time due to the many stressors of the pandemic as well as not securing advanced members who have been through the reporting process.
